Descripción

Hunter 33 – 2005

The Hunter 33 is a comfortable and versatile sailing yacht, combining practical design, good sailing performance and an extensive inventory, making her ideal for family cruising and longer sailing adventures.

She features a Selden furling mast system, furling mainsail and 110% furling jib, with two sets of mainsails and jibs for different sailing conditions. A cruising gennaker with its own furler and removable bowsprit provide additional versatility. The yacht is equipped with four Lewmar self-tailing winches, cockpit-led control lines, a windlass and primary and secondary anchors.

The spacious cockpit features an integrated steering console, stainless-steel arch, folding table, generous storage and a walk-through transom with swimming ladder and hot and cold shower.

Below deck, the galley is equipped with Corian countertops, a refrigerator, icebox, microwave, two-burner LPG stove and stainless-steel sink with hot and cold water.

Additional equipment includes a Honwave 2.4 m inflatable dinghy with a Honda 2.3 hp outboard engine, life jackets and a comprehensive range of deck equipment.
